The National Service Scheme (NSS) unit of International Institute of Information Technology, Hinjawadi Pune, plays a crucial role in fostering social responsibility and community engagement among young volunteers. Participating in activities like repairing earthen dams not only addresses environmental issues but also contributes to the overall well-being of the community. Our focus was on maintaining and constructing earthen dams for water conservation. Comprehensive assessments were conducted prior to the camp. NSS volunteers repaired 10 existing dams, addressing erosion and structural damage. We also built 4 new earthen dams, augmenting water storage and access.

Volunteers got hands-on learning in dam construction and water management. Community engagement ensured relevance and sustainability. Improved water storage and reduced soil erosion benefit the village's well-being.
