On 18th March, a team from International Institute of Information Technology, IT department visited Matruseva Sevabhavi Sanstha, an NGO dedicated to providing residential care for senior citizens, particularly those who are bedridden or lack family support. Under the Bombay Public Trust Act, Matruseva Sevabhavi Sanstha is a non-governmental trust focused on health and family welfare, with a special emphasis on nutrition and care for the elderly.

The organization has provided support and healthcare to over 245 individuals across Maharashtra, focusing on those suffering from conditions like Dementia, Alzheimer's disease, Parkinsonism, Paralysis, and other age-related ailments. Matruseva Sevabhavi Sanstha provides a wide range of compassionate and essential care services tailored to meet the unique needs of elderly residents. The center ensures nutritious meals and secures shelter, offering a homely environment where senior citizens feel safe and respected. Healthcare support is a key pillar of the services, with routine medical check-ups and timely assistance provided to address age-related ailments.

Special attention is given to personal hygiene, especially for bedridden individuals, ensuring they are clean, comfortable, and dignified. To nurture emotional well-being, the center organizes recreational activities that engage the residents, uplift their spirits, and reduce feelings of loneliness. Counseling services are also available for both the elderly and their families, helping them cope with emotional and psychological challenges. During our visit to Matruseva Sevabhavi Sanstha, we had a meaningful and eye-opening experience that offered deep insight into the lives of the elderly and the dedicated efforts of the care giving staff. We had the privilege to interact with the residents, engaging in heartfelt conversations where they shared their life stories, wisdom, and experiences, which left a lasting impression on us.

We also got the chance to take part in some fun activities with the residents, which made them happy and helped everyone feel more connected. It was heartwarming to see how even small moments brought smiles to their faces. We also spoke with the staff and learned about their daily work, the difficulties they face, and how rewarding it is to care for the elderly. Overall, the visit was a touching experience that reminded us how important it is to treat our elders with kindness, respect, and love.
